THE ECONOMY OF POLITICS

Statistics are sometimes as amusing as they are interesting. In looking over the record of the time expended by our Members of Assembly during the present session we find that from the 3d of September, (the opening of the House) to the end of March<sup>1</sup> there were 92 days on which our legislators met, and did something (we mean literally) 11 on which they met and did nothing-no quotum having been present; and 60 days (exclusive of Sundays) on which they neither met nor did anything. In September, there were 9 days on which the House met; in October there were 18 days; in November, 10 days; in December, 9; in January, 11; in February, 17; and in March, 18. The number of hours consumed on the average was on and a half each day, making 138 hours during the past six months. But to carry out figures a little further; we find that is order to give this hour and-a-half's attendance. the members are obliged to make a furthe sacrifice of three quarters of an hour each day in going to and returning from the legis lative building. Thus in order to perform the daily labor of an hour-and a-half, the legislator is obliged to expend two hours and a quarter-or in other words to devote a number of hours in going and returning during the session equal to half the actual time taken up in the House of Assembly. Was there ever anything more thoroughly grotesque than this? Legislation must surely seem to our Assembly-men a luxury that cannot be indulged in very much at a time.

Their delicate intellectual appetites must not run the risk of satiety with food of such rarity and richness. A few crumbs per day of this ambrosia! diet are all that can be taken with safety. Other legislative bodies may have the temerity to indulge extensively in the delicacy-may rush at it with a vulgar vigor that indicates a plebeian health-but our refined law-makers will nibble and sip as gently as the tiniest troutlet. It is strange that we cannot, in the absence of ability to improve on other countries, at least content ourselves with imitating them. There is to want of legislative examples From the "first deliberative assemblage in the world" to the smallest provincial parliament on the other side of the American continent,-from the least of the Australian Assemblies to the California Senate-we have abundant instances of legislative labor. In each and all of these bodies we shall find an earnestness displayed in getting through the work of a session, and we shall see despatch the "order" of every day. Legislation does not dwindle down to at hour and a halt's irrelevant twaddle, but rises to the highest and most important vocation of man. We shall have to follow in the footsteps of our superiors in knowledge and experience. Our members of Assembly must do the work of legislating in a workmanlike manner, even if they should lay themselves open to the charge of making a business of politics-or in other words of endeavoring to understand what they They will have to devote in the future six hours a day to the business of the country, or giv up a position their private vocations will not allow them properly to fill. The legislation of the colony cannot be conducted in a satisfactory or profitable manner otherwise. An hour and a half a day to public affairs is the veriest trifling, and the matter is not improved by the fact that the majority of the members know nothing about the business of the day until they enter the legislative build ing. Our sessions, as we have previously shown, should not extend beyond six weeks The last six months work could, by the devo tion of six hours a day, have been compressed into twenty-three days; and instead of sixty nine hours having been lost in the perambu lations across James Bay, there would have heen but seventeen-a saving to the mem bers of thirty-nine of their present days o

If we cannot obtain, men willing the civilized method of making laws, on achave to pay them. In a small and by no means wealthy community like our own, we think it a thousand times cheaper, under any circumstances, to pay for public services. than submit to the necessity of having foisted upon us a number of by no means competent men, who seem very anxious to accept public censure, questionable dignity, and pecuniary sacrifice, all for the patriotic love of the thing. This sort of gratuitous immolation by some means or other does not seem to pay. Our American and Canadian brethren, we are modest enough to presume know more about these matters than eve the wise men of this Far West, and they have concluded many years ago, that paid service are the cheapest. If we can obtain men able and willing to work in the House of Assembly a reasonable number of hours a day for simply the honor of the thing, we are quite willing to acce, t with gratitude their patriotic services; but so far we have not been suffiof all looky to catch hold of this class, and from a careful survey over our political area we confess we see no hope of gaining suc voluntary self-sacrifice. require that the business hours should be from 7

the state of the having a good and safe Harbor and is a FREE PORT. It derives its importance from the well known Coal Mines, which since they passed into the hands of the present proprietors, are being extensively worked, Wharf Railway with Locomotive, te., having been constructed, and other improvements on a large scale being projected. The exports during the first three months of this year alone amounting to 10,677 tons. There are other Coal Mines also in the neighborhood which are about to be developed.

HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY.

FRIDAY, April 15th, 1864. House met at 3:15, p. m. Members pres-ent-Messrs. Young, DeCosmos, Powell, Franklin, Trimble, To:mic, Street, Bayley, Carswell, Dennes.

PETITION ON THE CITY BOUNDARIES.

Dr. Trimble presented a petition from certain property holders residing outside the present city limits, south of James Bay, against the extension of the city beyond its present limits in that direction.

Report laid on the table.

THE CHARGE OF DISLOYALTY.

Mr. DeCosmos introduced his motion repudiating the charge of disloyalty which had been made against the hon. Speaker of the House. He had never heard the Speaker utter a single remark which could possibly be interpreted in any way to express disloyal sentiments. He would state that had disloyal expressions been uttered in this House either by the hon. Speaker or any body else, ha at once have denounced them, as he was convinced, every hon, memorer House (hear, hear). He would remark dition, that he thought it no treason ver to speak in strong terms of any disswhich might be laid before the House, as the hon. Speaker was concerned, he, as the hon was the hon would, he was convinced, every hon, mem er in the House (hear, hear). He would remark in addition, that he thought it no treason whatever to speak in strong terms of any dispatches which might be laid before the House. So far as the hon. Speaker was concerned, he, (Mr. DeC.) had known the hon. Speaker for the last six years, and there had been occasions during that time when he had manfully and nobly shown his loyalty to the Imperial Government (hear, hear); and till the present day he believed him to be possessed of the warmest spirit of loyalty to his Sovereign—(Applause.)

(Applause.)
Dr. Frimble was almost ashamed to get up to support such a motion; but he would simply say that he believed the hon. Speaker would yield to none in loyalty.

The Speaker said if this had been merely meeting at all, but be bad been invited, and so fell into the trap. He noped the House would excuse him this once for going, and he would not attend another (laughter).

Mr. Franklin said he was one who had full belief in the loyalty of the Hon. Speaker, but in debate remarks were sometimes dropped that were perhaps unadvisable. He would not, say that the slight observations which had been made, did not give some the form the list of signatures attached to the resolution presented from the Irsurance which had been made, did not give some foundation for the opinions which had been foundation for the opinions w publicly expressed.

Mr. Street said he was in the House at the to the Governor. Mr. Street said he was in the House at the time, and to the best of his recollection the words of the hon. Speaker did not give the slightest foundation for such an imputation.

manner of the hon. Speaker the least sign of such a meaning being intended.

Dr. Powell expressed his regret that the hen. Speaker had attended the meeting, and also that any thing said there should have caused the House to take it up. As it had been brought up; however, he had great pleasure in supporting the resolution.

Mr. Young said his hon. colleague (Mr. Franklin) had provoked a discussion in a matter which had been much better left alone. (hear hear) He (Mr. Y.) would say, however, that there was nothing in what the hon. Speaker had said to give the slightet ground for the imputation which had gone abroad. He had sat by the side of the hon. Speaker when the speech referred to had been made, and he had not heard once world of a disloyal nature. (loud applause) made, and he had not heard one word of a disloyal nature. (loud applause)

Mr. Franklin rose again to speak to the enestion. He would be very sorry to cast any imputation on the hon. Speaker, and if his remarks could possibly be attributed to that feeling he would at once withdraw all opposition. He felt that there was no solid eccasion for such an imputation—no reality in the remarks of the hon. Speaker, although he must say that they gave some color to the categories.

The Speaker said if he thought that any hon member believed for a moment that he had uttered disloyal sentiments, he would at once leave the chair, and the House too (Applause).

The resolution was here put, and carried unanimously. COE AND MARTIN'S BILL.

This bill was thrown out on its second reading. BANK NOTE BILL.

This bill, as amended by the Legislative Council came up before the House. The amendments were adopted, with the exception of that referring to the metallic reserve, which was rejected.

The House went into committee on this bill, Mr. Bayley in the chair. 3, enacting and confirming the by-law of March, 1863, Mr. DeCosmos brought forward the followdment:-That all license moneys that have been paid in conformity with the provisious of the by-law passed by the Mayor and Council of the City of Victoria, on the 13th day of March, 1863, and confirmed by a vote of the electronic of said city on the 28th March, 1863, by any person or corporation, are hereby enacted, and declared to be and to have been lawfully paid, whether such licenses shall have been paid under protest or not.

Mr. Franklins objected strongly to the amount of taxes proposed to be collected by a the amendment, which he said would more than equal the whole Civil List, which honmembers had so eloquently declaimed against. He advocated a loan of $50,000, which would afford the city abundant funds to carry on all necessary improvements, and went at length necessary improvements, and went at length into the subject. He would move that Sec-tion 3 be struck out. Mr. DeCosmos said the hon, gentleman had made the most extraordinary speech he had ever heard in this House.

Dr. Trimble said he perfectly understood the speech of the hon. member for the city— (Mr. Franklin). He meant that those who had paid their taxes should have them refunded,

That any receipt heretofore given for mon oys paid into the city treasury as taxes on real estate under the by-law of December, 1863, may be tendered to and shall be re-ceived by the Colonial Treasurer as so much 1863, may be tendered to and shall be received by the Colonial Treasurer as so much cash in payment of any city taxes on real estate authorised to be imposed by this Act.

Mr. DeCosmos opposed the amendment; by the present bill the city will be enabled to raise, with the amount now due, a revenue of $34,550. Deducting the amount for which the city is liable, the total revenue left the city to be expended in improvements, &c., &c., will be about $12,000. He moved that section 4 be left as it stands.

Mr. Young said the sum required to pay off the liabilities of the city would be about $14,000. The tax due under the by-law was about $13,000 but not more than $11,000 could be collected. He-would ask why those who had not paid this tax should each of the collected by the other provisions is about $20,000 or $25,000, and deducing the liabilities of the city they would not be more than $12,000. He thought the revenue of the city had heretolore been most judiciously expended and had greatly improved the value of property in the city. The hon-gentleman apposed the system of pledging the credit of the colony for the numicipality, as being likely to injure its standing abroad.

Mr. Franklin characterised the remarks of his hon-collecting as extremely trivial.

The amendment was lost, Mr. Franklin only in the affirmative, and the section was

THE SCHOOL QUESTION.

Dr. Powell gave notice that he would move that a request be sent to His Excellency requesting him to delay the appropriation of the $5000 voted to build a school-house on the Reserve, pending the action of the school committee in drawing up a bill, and also to provide a sufficient sum for the temporary provision of a public common school in the city. chool in the city. This House however, must consider the source from which the imputation came, and not to take heed to the remarks made by every low fellow who may choose to make them. The House must not fulminate its thunder to crush such low vermin. He hoped it any similar necessity should again arise, that the House would take other means of vindicating itself than by resolutions. He would not have been at the meeting at all, but he had been invited, and so fall into the trap. He noped the House so fall into the trap.

FINANCIAL COMMISSION.

The Commissioners have issued their sec-ond report, fully confirming the statements in their former report and bringing to light a great number of the most nefarious trans-actions. Foote has been charging most out-rageous prices—pen knives, $58 per doz.; paper per ream, fols. $20; post, $12; note $8; blotting, $12; wrapping, $8. The Hamilton Spectator frow largely in advance—about $1600—to make accounts square, charging three or four times the usual prices for printing and advertising. The London Prototype has also had a finger in the pie. Mr. Baby, the French contractor for Lighthouses, Turboats, etc, has fed deliciously at the public crib. A full account of all these peculations you will get in your exchanges. The Cartier-Macdonald cabinet appear to have cast their bread upon the waters with a vengearce. Canada will reap the bitter fruit of this extravagance for years. The increase in some of the items is very great; for example—printing and stationery for 1852, $15,639; for 1862, $91,428. Nows-papers and advertising for 1852, $2,812; for 1862, $20,756.

Much of the future prosperity of Canada depends on the adoption of some such policy.

hope yet to see, and that soon, the two floth bands uniting Canada and British Columbia, and hear the locomotive waking up the echoes in the gorges of the Rocky Mountains, when we shall have the pleasure of seeing our transmontane friends joining us on the banks of Ontario, in celebrating our national holiday, the 24th of May. Long may that day be our national fete day.

Extraordinary rumors are affect as to the sudden changes among members of Parliament. It is alleged that Currier, Alorzo Wright, Poupon, Conger, and F. Jones will support the government, and that Dunkin will not support any want of confidence motion, but will try the ministers are confident they will be supported. The opposition leaders are evidently disturbed and far from confident. These rumors must be received with caution; for my own part, I have little faith in them, time will try, "as frost tries green kale."

The Quebec correspondent of the Globe is quite of opinion that the government will be sustained, without counting a single one of confident, when they have been the color of the proposition.

some Pakeha who could speak Maori. Mr. Gundry, interpreter to the forces, advanced, but in the meanwhile our men had crept up, and the whole of the party were surrounded before they were hardly aware of it, so that Intelligence, in anticipation of the Overland Mail, of a great battle in New Zealand, has arrived. The Auckland correspondent of the Sydney Morning Herald writes on the 30th November:—

The news which I am able to send you by the present mail is, without exception, the best that I have had yet to send. The divappointment sustained at Mere-Mere have the more, than made up for by the unexpected success which we have experienced at Rangariti. I scarcely looked for a stand of any kind to be made by the Maories after they deserted Mere-Mere, which I well knew to be naturally one of the strongest places in New Zealand—at all events, until they were surrounded it was found to number 185, including one or the strongest places in New Zealand—at all events, until they were surrounded to the more deserted when the strongest places in New Zealand—at all events, until they were surrounded to surrender a party on being brought out they made. The party on their lives were perfectly safe in our hands, Among the prisoners are some chiefs of note, the names of whom I will endeavor to ascertain; twelve of the party were wounded, but not seriously. Soon after the surrender a party of natives, to the number of about 30, were seen advancing over the hills from the direction of the King's place. They carried a white flag, is and halted occasionally, as if undecided in the movements. Mr. Edwards, the interpreter, went on to meet them, and found that it was a party of 400 men who, with William Thompson at their head, were comping to the rescue; but seeing the white flag and our flag flying on the parapet, concluded that the garrison had surrendered and that peace had been made. The messenger sant by Thompson to meet Mr. Edwards inquired the conditions which we were disposed to accept, and was of course told that of unconditional surrender, and laying down their arms, on which terms I understand that Thompson was willing to come in himself, but some among the party would not agree.

From the Nor-Wester.

THE FIRST LINE OF THE OVERLAND RAILROAD.—The St. Paul and Pacific Railroad was opened to Anoka on the 18th January.
The event was celebrated at Anoka, with all the honors. In the evening a large number of excursionists from St. Paul sat down to supper in the International Hotel. There was much speechifying, in the course of which the Hon. Edmund Rice made the following statement, which will interest our readers:—

The Red River country continues to be inundated with bordes of predatory Sioux, who act with great insolence, helping themselves to the goods of the settlers without the least compunction. Serious troubles are anticipated between them and the Salteaux Ind'ans.
Little Six, a famous Sioux chief, who beasted that he had killed fourteen white women and children, in the Minnesota massacres, has been evidently were aware of the trap into which captured on Brilish territory by American troops, and taken to St. Paul for trial. A good deal of excitement has been cancel in the settlement by this act, as being a gross breach of international law. The Nor Wester however, commends the course pursued by the American authorities.

The snow had altogether disappeared on the road between Pembina and St. Paul, on the first February. Major Kimball, U.S. A., and another gentleman, drove a pair of horses through from St. Paul to the settlement, a distance of 600 miles, in ten days. SHOT FOR DESERTION.

A correspondent of the S. F. Alta with th California Battalion serving with the Army of the Potomac, at Vienna, Va., under date February 14th, furnishes the following melancholy episode One week age to day we were called upon to witness the most painful seen enacted since we have been soldiers—one of our number was shot for descriing to the enemy.

About three weeks ogo, we were asionished to hear that William E. Ornsby, of Captain Eigenbrodt's Company, E. had deserted to the enemy, taking with him two of the best and fleetest horses in the regiment, fully equipped, and several Colt's revolvers. Being thus well armed and mounted, he hastened to Aldie, where he had contracted an intimacy with a young lady of the rebel persuasion. Ormsby was at the time on duty as one of a patrol from Lowensille to camp, made one round and returned to the Reserve; being in possession of the countersign, he had no difficulty in getting through the lines. Soon after the news reached the camp, a detachment f about sixty men started in pursuif, but returned siter a fruitess search of two days. About two days after this, another scoul clic camp and proceeded to Aldie, and while resting in the town, the advance guard of twenty men were charged on by nine guerillas, with Ormsby at their
